

What is volunteering?

Audience: Spending your time, skill and knowledge for a social cause without any expectations.

Audience: Willingly wanting to do something.

Audience: Helping people who are in need

Audience: It is an inner will to help the society without any expectations of gaining monetary values.

Speaker: Formal definition by UNDP: Volunteering is defined as a form of social behaviour undertaken freely which benefits the community or society at large as well as the volunteer, and which is not driven by financial considerations. Whenever there is any kind of relationship, both the parties have to be benefitted as parasitic relationships do not last long.